

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a friction material having a high fiber content fibrous base material as a primary layer and a secondary layer of friction modifying particles on at least one surface of the primary layer for use as an anti-shudder friction material.